

The Perfect Picture

Layla and Tim were siblings. The local zoo was holding a photography competition. The prize was family tickets to the zoo, an animal plushie and the winning photograph to be featured on the zoo magazine cover.

To enter, Layla took a photo of a peacock and Tim took a photo of a bumblebee. After seeing all entries, the competition judge couldn't decide on the final winner out of the two siblings. He asked each of them to explain why they should win. Tim bet his money on Layla's photo winning and couldn't think of anything to say. Layla said that Tim's photo was better and deserved to win.

The judge was moved by how the siblings gave way to each other and decided that both entries deserved to win. Half of the printed magazines had Layla's peacock photo on it and the other half had Tim's bumblebee photo. They both got tickets to the zoo and won an animal plushie each.

Questions

1. What were photography competition prizes?

---

2. What does the word featured mean?

---

3. How did the judge feel knowing both siblings wanted the other to win?

---

4. What does it mean to bet your money on something?

---

5. How did Layla and Tim's actions affect the photography competition rules?

---

6. What might happen if there was only one window seat left on the safari shuttle when Layla and Tim visit the zoo?

---

---